INTARSIO Design Harry Hersche

Dining table or office desk with wood intarsia in the table top edge. A craftsmanship with historical value combined with a simple, sustainable base made of solid wood. The combination of a thin, rectangular table top and the diagonally placed legs creates a capricious character, which is also supported by the diagonally arranged intarsia. The table base is made with solid wild service tree finished with clear matt varnish. The wood intarsia in the table top edge is a combination of wild service tree, maple and walnut also in a clear matt varnish finish. The table surface and the soffit are made with anthracite linoleum. The core layer of the table top is a specially laminated balsa wood.
